Foreword

Missionvale Care Centre - (Changing Lives now and in the Future)

For almost three decades, Sr Ethel Normoyle and a dedicated team have served the community of Missionvale. In doing so, they have changed countless lives.

In late 2014, the Trustees considered the issue of how to preserve and sustain Missionvale Care Centre into the future. What followed was a year-long consultation involving the local community, provincial and local government, donors, staff, volunteers and social development experts.

The key questions included how best to continue to provide relevant services to the community while also building capacity so that the community became more self-sustaining. This means concentrating our resources in the areas of education, community development and health and wellbeing.

All service provision relies on the cornerstones of sound finances, good governance and being true to the ethos of Missionvale Care Centre - showing respect, dignity and compassion to our Missionvale family.

As we approach the implementation phase of our strategic plan, it is clear that in building new capacity, we will need to harness new resources, forge partnerships with agencies, donors and specialists in the fields of education, youth and community development, healthcare and entrepreneurship.

In so doing, we honour the legacy of Sr Ethel and all those, many no longer with us, who have helped make her ambition and vision a reality. Please join us in the next stage of the journey where our goal remains the changing of lives, step by step, so that the community is in turn transformed.
Dear Friends, Dear Friends,
I owe you so much, and it’s time to tell you, though I know you know where I’ve been if it were not for your trust and love down 28 years?
Time! Yes it’s all we have—long or short—and how grateful I am to you for the time we have spent together.
Down the years I have wondered what led me here, and every day brings its answer. Many of you reading this may ask “Do you remember?” and again “Do you remember?” Yes I remember so much, and can relate many good and wondrous times, and sadly many experiences of destruction.

It has been a long journey on the dusty footpaths of Missionvale, one that started in 1988 with nothing but hope in my heart, and a rucksack on my back, but along the way I have encountered humanity at its best.

The awesome welcome from the people of Missionvale and their acceptance of this ordinary girl from Lissybeg in Limerick never ended. As we shared life together, I was challenged to enter into their cares, illness, pain, hunger, loneliness, tears, despair, agony, forgiveness, joy, laughter, births and deaths, and I found myself crying out “Lord, what do you want me to do?”

The vision of Missionvale Care Centre as you know it today came through listening to the voices and foresight of the people and it was in a gathering under the tree that I asked them what we would call what we hoped would emerge and unswervingly they said “A Care Centre.” That gave birth to the organisation.

It was then that I turned to you, the People of the greater Port Elizabeth, and Clear, and your trust in me became the wind beneath my wings! How can I ever, ever tell you what it meant to me and how do I thank you?
Those who know me know that I enjoy telling stories (a trait I inherited from my father) and I could go on forever on the story of Missionvale. It's like a tapestry. We have come together, living in, and embracing the evolving future. You can proudly look back on the legacy you have created, but you are an integral part of the future to maintain it, and grow it through the strategic plan. You may have read through the document already and you will have seen that it has been well researched through discussions with stakeholders and key partners both here and far away.

In today's challenging economic environment, longevity and sustainability is critical to the success of any organisation. Missionvale is no exception. As much in reading this document you will appreciate that hours of consultation, planning, passion, and commitment has gone into this.

The struggle of the People of Missionvale has not ended, and therefore the execution of the bold objectives of this document will require all hands on deck.

I humbly appeal to you that we work together in sharing the new energy brought about by this plan in taking ownership of the tasks and work that still has to be done in serving the People of Missionvale as you did in the past. We can do it.

Once again, I would like to thank each one of you from my heart's core for all you mean to me and have done. To the Little Company of Mary who gave me the opportunity to live our charism, as best I could – thank you.

With open arms and love every one of you, and in

ethel
Executive Summary

“It can be said that there are four basic and primary things that the mass of people in a society wish for: to live in a safe environment, to be able to work and provide for themselves, to have access to good public health and to have sound educational opportunities for their children.”
Nelson Mandela, 1918-2013

Missionvale
Missionvale is a community of some 25,000 people near Port Elizabeth, South Africa. Faced with what is often intergenerational poverty and deprivation, most residents live in self-built accommodation that frequently lacks the most basic amenities. The settlement has just one public school and one public health clinic while children attending high school face a walk of five kilometres or more to reach overcrowded schools.

Caring Tradition
The story of Missionvale Care Centre begins under the Apartheid regime in 1988 when Sister Ethel Normoyle, an Irish nun from the Little Company of Mary, started morning classes in basic literacy and numeracy for children who were not attending school. In the afternoons, she would go from family to family, drawing on her skills as a nurse to provide basic healthcare.

In a striking example of great things coming from modest beginnings, what is now the Missionvale Care Centre has grown over the intervening years as Sr. Ethel and the allies drawn to her caring mission have created a purpose-built campus at the heart of Missionvale. Here, Missionvale Care Centre has dedicated buildings for healthcare, education, welfare and community activities.

The health centre – delivered through a partnership with South Africa’s Department of Health – provides specialist medical care in an accessible setting at no cost to the community. A primary school helps educate younger children. Community health practitioners provide home-based care to local families while a nutrition unit supports better diet and tackles hunger and disease while also advising on safe use of medication.
It is no exaggeration to say that what began with one extraordinary and hard-working woman has grown to have a tremendous impact on the local community. Indeed, the longevity and diversity of the work done by Sr. Ethel and those who’ve joined her means that there are now generations of local people with reason to be grateful for the services and supports they’ve received at Missionvale Care Centre.

Looking Ahead
To protect and build on what has been achieved since 1988, it is important that Missionvale Care Centre has a strategy that allows vital services to be delivered sustainably.

In mapping out a strategy for the years 2016-2020, we are very conscious of building on strong foundations and aware of the responsibility this brings. We are also very fortunate in having Sr. Ethel's continued guidance as we seek to take her founding vision forward.

Throughout 2015, a series of consultations took place with a wide range of stakeholders to ensure that the strategic plan that ultimately emerged is grounded in the realities of Missionvale life, is ambitious but achievable and reflects the priorities of the local community rather than being somehow imposed based on a loose sense of what people should want.

While every individual and group that we engaged with made a genuine contribution, perhaps the richest of the sessions through the year was with more than 40 residents of Missionvale who freely shared their concerns about life as it is in the community today but also sketched out their vision of what Missionvale could become by 2020 and beyond.

Roadmap
Having carefully analysed the current state of Missionvale Care Centre and heard all of the inputs from those interested in shaping its future, some key strategic goals soon emerged around which the five-year plan is built.

In framing these goals, every effort was made to ensure they are SMART (Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Realistic and Timely) but also challenging and stretching –
Governance: Create an effective governance model integrating all stakeholders to deliver the goals of Missionvale Care Centre, provide strategic guidance and maintain the integrity of Missionvale Care Centre for all partners;
Partnership: Maintain and foster external public and private partnerships integral to the achievement of the goals of Missionvale Care Centre in the areas of health, education and community;
Health: Develop a sustainable operating model that provides comprehensive community healthcare in Missionvale;
Education: Facilitate access to all levels of education for the people of Missionvale;
Community development: Create a sustainable community model through capacity-building, delivered with external agencies and;
Finance: Implementation of a structured funding model that underwrites the delivery of Missionvale Care Centre’s health, education and community activity.

Focus
In all that we do through to 2020, we will continue to live the shared values of respect, dignity, compassion, integrity, equality and commitment to our Missionvale family and to be guided by our mission to deliver through partnership the greatest level of care, wellbeing and accountability to every stakeholder.

While it’s seldom the most ‘glamorous’ part of any strategy, good governance will be crucial to delivering on the legitimate ambition that exists for Missionvale Care Centre. If we are to continue to meet and surpass expectations in the community we serve, we need to have robust structures in place that support current operations but which also provide a framework for future growth.

Centred on sustainability, the governance model will involve clearly-defined roles for the Missionvale Care Centre Trust (board responsible for strategic direction) and Missionvale Foundation Trust (providing financial advice to the board around strategic projects). Education, health and wellbeing, community development and operations teams within Missionvale Care Centre will have responsibility for frontline service delivery. In addition, the community voice will be heard in a structured way and taken on board in all strategic decision-making so that we continue to respond to real local needs.
Measurement
In considering what success will look like and how we can best deliver on our goals by 2020, it is clear that particular aspects of the strategy need more immediate attention while others are more incremental and can be dealt with through the five years of the plan.

To help ensure that steady and sustained progress is made on each pillar of the plan, rigorous reporting and monitoring systems will be in place with an emphasis on open and transparent communications. This will be supported by a dedicated strategy review group who will formally report each year but also make interim representations where any issues or blockages emerge.

Responsibility is assigned for each of the more than 30 steps identified in the plan while there is also a delivery timeframe for each against which implementation will be measured. To guard against slippage, it is intended that an independent review be instigated every two years that will provide a valuable external perspective.

As well as measuring progress in implementing various elements of the plan with our partners, we will also pay increased attention to measuring the impact of individual projects and interventions that Missionvale Care Centre delivers. In this way, we will have more reliable data and be better able to benchmark the return we are delivering for the local community and to deploy resources where they will have greatest impact.

Sharing the Journey
In framing this strategic plan, a recurring theme has been how interconnected so many aspects of the work of Missionvale Care Centre are and how many people work together to deliver the services that our local community relies on.

It is only through continuing this great teamwork that we can achieve our shared goals so please continue to play your part and know that your contribution is valued.
For more than a quarter of a century and through a time of seismic change for South Africa, Sr. Ethel Normoyle and countless other unsung heroes have devoted huge energy and resources to building what is now Missionvale Care Centre.

The challenge we are set is to continue this work of meeting the otherwise unmet basic needs of the Missionvale community in the years ahead. Together, we can continue to make a real difference to the lives of many and exceed even our own highest expectations.
Introduction

Missionvale is located near the salt plains of the rivers that ring South Africa’s third largest coastal city, Port Elizabeth. The settlement started in the area nearly 130 years ago when people began moving onto the commonage in the separate villages north of the emerging city. The land was divided into plots that still bear the names of the original owners who leased smaller pieces of land to newcomers desperate for a place to stay. Spontaneous shacking remained the dominant form of housing until very recently.

Missionvale suffered under the political vicissitudes of apartheid. Racially discriminatory policies kept places like Missionvale on the bottom of the list for improved facilities and service delivery, while political unrest brought further restrictions on community life. Continued urbanisation resulted in densely packed settlements with little room for services to meet residents’ basic needs. Poverty and want of every kind is very evident in Missionvale. The absence of social facilities gave rise to unlicensed taverns and associated criminal activity. After 21 years of democratic rule in South Africa, change has been slow coming to Missionvale. In recent years there have been two public housing projects and one public / private development but the majority of residents still live in self built accommodation lacking basic amenities.

Missionvale is home to some 25 000 people. Despite the sizable and growing young population in the area, Missionvale has only one public school and one public health clinic which was built by Missionvale Care Centre and handed over to the Municipality in 1995. Children who attend high school must walk 5km or more to schools which are already full. Social security support in South Africa is limited to children, the elderly and the disabled. There is no provision in Missionvale for commercial development or public amenities and local businesses are limited to micro-enterprises operating from shacks or refurbished shipping containers. Since the early 90’s, a branch of the city university has operated on the borders of Missionvale, but very few locals have benefitted from its presence. Local factories which would historically have drawn workers from Missionvale are largely automotive and associated industries with very much smaller and more sophisticated labour needs in the 21st century.
Missionvale is ringed by other very large, low income settlements with similar urgent needs. The Mandela Bay Municipality has struggled to provide for the poor communities of the city and angry residents resort to service protests thereby adding to local discontent and feelings of neglect.

Relative to other poor communities in the Eastern Cape, Missionvale has higher than average levels of literacy and schooling and somewhat higher incomes – although still at poverty levels. More of its residents lived in stable family groups than is typical and they exhibit the lowest level of interest in moving home. However, Missionvale residents report the highest levels of dissatisfaction as revealed in surveys of similar communities. Feelings of “stuckness” and frustration may reflect low levels of agency and the sense that very little will change for the better through community or state action. Politically, Missionvale is contested ground with one of its two municipal wards having changed hands from the ANC to the opposition Democratic Alliance in the last local election. This has heightened tension and suspicion in the community which typically in South Africa then plays out in racial terms and a growing sense of exclusion by long term residents who fear the community is being taken away from them.

The new housing developments may appear to have changed Missionvale, but this is misleading. The most recent development was a rushed process leaving residents with new homes, but no water supply or electricity. The promise is that water and sanitation will be retro-fitted in coming years with more disruption. In the meantime, fitted bathrooms must be used only as storerooms with unsafe and insanitary outdoor birch the only alternative.

Poverty is an enduring and deeply rooted reality in Missionvale and surrounding communities. In Missionvale, physical needs and lack of opportunity are compounded by visible poverty of the spirit making the imperative for positive, empowering community upliftment all the more urgent. The efforts of the state with considerable resources at its disposal have done little to address the real ravages of poverty in this neglected community. It is time for trusted agents of civil society to come to the fore to make the difference.
Building on our strengths
Missionvale Overview
Missionvale is home to the Missionvale Care Centre – a powerful example of the difference one determined woman can make. Irish born Sister Ethel Normoyle of the Little Company of Mary began working in the community 28 years ago during the final tumultuous decade of apartheid. The tales are legion of the families and individuals she helped, with no questions asked. Small acts of mercy and generosity from one who had so little herself, inspired others and soon her work began to develop institutional character. Drawing on Sister Ethel’s medical profession as a nurse, she established the first health care facility accessible to the community. A feeding scheme was soon added, then a clothing exchange and an annual Christmas party for children from families with no means of their own to celebrate. These provided easy avenues for other caring groups in Port Elizabeth - individuals, organisations and businesses - to give and become involved in Sister Ethel’s courageous work. Under successive apartheid States of Emergency even philanthropy was viewed with deep suspicion by the security forces and the work was threatened on many occasions. But Sister Ethel persevered.

After long years of selfless service, Sister Ethel’s legacy is easy to see. Missionvale Care Centre now operates from a campus in the middle of Missionvale with custom built buildings home to health care, education, welfare and community activities. Over the year’s different champions have been drawn to working at Missionvale Care Centre and with their wisdom and experience has contributed to the development of new supports including:

- High quality Health Centre providing through partnership with the Department of Health otherwise unimaginable levels of specialist care at no cost to the community.
- Home based care offered by a dedicated team of local women trained as Community Health Practitioners.
- Nutrition Unit to facilitate patients in taking their medication, helps to combat TB and enables hungry children to study.
The next chapter is possibly it’s most exciting. Building on the strong foundations laid by Sister Ethel and her many supporters over the years, the Missionvale Care Centre is poised to embrace offerings that will build new capacity and agency for and with the community. Partnerships with other dedicated service providers, specialists in the fields of early childhood education, care for the elderly, self-help strategies and youth empowerment hold the promise for self-driven change, facilitated by the Care Centre.

Missionvale Care Centre is fortunate to continue to have the input of Sr. Ethel with 28 years of experience in shaping a vision for the future. She will remain a trustee on the board, a founder visionary and represent the Little Company of Mary, guiding, enlightening and providing advice. Succession planning is well advanced and embraces the following elements;

• Strong governance structures embracing active stakeholder participation.
• Strengthening the professional management team.
• Continued financial stewardship and fundraising to ensure a sustainable future.
• Strategic re-visioning of Missionvale Care Centre to embrace best practice community development initiatives trailed by respected agencies locally and across South Africa.
• An all embracing plan of action prepared with expert assistance and community consultation to chart the next decade of socially transformational programmes for Missionvale residents.
• Partnerships with like-minded development agencies and Government agencies (to include Health, Education, Local Government and Employment) to broaden the reach and impact of the Centre’s work.

After 21 years of democracy, the work of private organisations like Missionvale Care Centre remain as critical as ever to South Africans trapped in poverty. Against a backdrop of increased government social, educational, housing and welfare spend, the gritty realities of life in Missionvale remain largely unchanged. The legacy of denial and exclusion remains deep and painful. Shattered families are not quickly restored and the lack of opportunity, learning and hope passes leaves new generations impoverished in their turn. It is the challenge of the Missionvale Care Centre to help break this cycle so much in evidence in the homes and shacks that surround it, enabling people to believe again in themselves and a better future for all.

Developing a Strategic Approach for Missionvale Care Centre

A Symbol for the Future of Missionvale
The Missionvale tree is symbolic with hope and growth in Missionvale. The tree represents the starting point for the Missionvale Care Centre journey from the day Sister Ethel first administrated her care and love to the residents of Missionvale. Today, the tree stands strong supported by the roots that have sustained it over the past number of decades. The roots of the tree have been adopted as the symbolic of the strategic goals that will guide Missionvale Care Centre over the next five years, supporting activity that will affect positive change for the people of Missionvale.

Each of the six ‘roots’ represent a new focus for Missionvale Care Centre anchored by strong governance, working in partnership with existing and new stakeholders underwritten by solid financial planning. The core operational areas of Health, Education and Community Development continue to be at the heart of all Missionvale Care Centre activity. These will now form the platform for residents of Missionvale to achieve their potential through the care and support of all stakeholders.

A Phased Approach to Plan Delivery
The long term ambition is considerable. The hopes and dreams of all stakeholders is the fulfilment of the goals set out within the plan while striving to achieve longer term delivery of major projects that will have a transformational impact on the community. The achievement of our strategic goals and objectives is grounded in recognising the resources available to Missionvale Care Centre and the need to phase in key development projects. The delivery of our strategic plan for the next five years is based on a two phased plan to lead Missionvale Care Centre to a position where it can work towards longer term projects across the areas of Education, Health and Community. The two phases of the strategic plan implementation approach are as follows;

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Phase One</th>
<th>Years 1-2</th>
<th>Consolidation and Organisational Structure Development</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Phase Two</td>
<td>Years 3-5</td>
<td>Structure and Project Enhancement</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
In the longer term, Missionvale Care Centre has identified a range of projects and programmes that have the potential to be transformational in nature, from ensuring access to all levels of education to enhanced healthcare provision. Over the course of this strategic plan, the fulfilment of the strategic objectives will contribute to achieving the longer term ambition that will make a considerable difference across the community of Missionvale. The success of the plan is built upon the solid foundations achieved through the consolidation and organisational structure development phase. The platform for the next phase of project development will be created through this consolidation period while ensuring the appropriate governance and internal structures are firmly in place to guide all future activity.

A Longer Term Ambition for Missionvale

Beyond the timeframe of this plan, a range of projects have the potential to become transformational through the long term impact they will have on the residents of Missionvale. The ambitions of all stakeholders consulted reflect a strong desire to focus on education and the creation of capacity building opportunities.

A new generation will emerge with new opportunities based on the ability to focus on the young people of Missionvale while providing the required level of care for the family and elderly citizens. The creation of pathways for all residents from formal and informal education to vocational and capacity building represents the central theme to developing a sustainable future for Missionvale Care Centre.

Our vision for future transformational projects is that they will impact on all residents of Missionvale and provide our stakeholders with an opportunity for sustained engagement with these programmes. In the medium term we will focus on the immediate requirements with a view to delivering on the projects that will make a lasting impact on the community of Missionvale.

HEALTH & WELLBEING

The delivery of quality healthcare is a guiding principal that was fundamental to the establishment of Missionvale Care Centre. The future delivery of healthcare for the people of Missionvale will continue to be delivered based on the founding principles of Sister Ethel Normoyle. The progression to an enhanced level of provision will require increased financial and human capital. The creation of a sustainable healthcare system for Missionvale Care Centre will require a broader approach in its ability to resource the expertise with partnership central to the fulfilment of the long term healthcare ambition. The role of Missionvale Care Centre's direct interventions in the community remains a central tenant to fulfilling the overarching goals for community health. A unified approach to health and well-being will prioritise the immediate needs while in the medium to longer term deliver full time health care in a community striving for the fundamentals of basic provision.

Strategic Goal: Develop a sustainable operating model that provides comprehensive community health care in Missionvale

EDUCATION

Education can address the root causes of many of the key societal issues in Missionvale. The creation of educational pathways for the residents of Missionvale represents the central goal in delivering an educational campus approach that will provide every resident with an opportunity to access formal and informal learning. Education remains at the heart of all future Missionvale Care Centre activity. The ambition to create a broader educational campus will ensure every young person can follow a logical pathway from pre school to vocational training. The provision of post primary education access within easy reach of Missionvale will be transformational. Short to medium term initiatives will be required to address immediate blockages that could stem the progression from Missionvale Care Centre’s primary school. In the longer term, public partnership will be the key to unlocking the opportunity that post primary education access will provide for all residents of Missionvale.

Strategic Goal: Facilitate access to all levels of education for the people of Missionvale.

- Secure sustainable funding for Missionvale Care Centre Academy to ensure access to primary level education.
- Establish a High School in the local area.
- Facilitate progression of pupils from MCCA to high school education.

- Creation of a wider programme of formal and informal adult education and parental training within the community.
- Enhance pre schooling provision in the community to support vulnerable groups.
- Development of a linkage with the NMMU across the areas of education and sport to create community role models.
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

A stronger Missionvale community will inherently challenge poverty and marginalisation. The creation of community development pathways providing social and economic programming will be integral to a sustainable community model. The development of new livelihood initiatives, income generation opportunities and capacity building within the community is central to addressing the key objective of minimising the dependency culture that prevails. The ability to influence change through all points of contact from community health practitioners to on site interaction will represent the initial phase in achieving community development goals. The creation of a wider community platform with opportunities for young and old will provide long term engagement and develop community confidence in its ability to affect change. Missionvale Care Centre is at the heart of the community occupying a position of trust. The opportunity to engage with all internal and external stakeholder bases to enhance community life and provide new socio-economic pathways will be realised through effective partnership and most critically, an understanding of what the residents of Missionvale aspire to for future generations.

Strategic Goal: Create a sustainable community model through capacity building delivered with external agencies.

- Development of a community voice forum that will input to Missionvale Care Centre.
- Reduce the food lines by 50% and transform food queues into ‘community capacity lines’ that stimulates wider engagement while on site.

- Development of on site senior citizen programmes operated and coordinated through the people of Missionvale.
The financial sustainability of Missionvale Care Centre needs to support the longer term ambitions and strategic vision for the centre. Prudent financial management aided by an ability to leverage external partnership funds remain the principal sources of support for all activity within Missionvale Care Centre. The expansion of a number of fundraising models will be developed in order to create additional funding streams that will support specific projects in the areas of Health, Education and Community Development.

Strategic Goal: Implementation of a structured fundraising model that underwrites the delivery of Missionvale Care Centre’s Health, Education and Community activity.

- Creation of a funder model to develop funder relationships and ensure Missionvale projects can attract Corporate Social Investment funds.
- Implementation of an enhanced and integrated internal financial reporting system for Missionvale Care Centre.
- Development of on site management to align with key financial measurements.
- Target local, provincial and national government funding support for Missionvale Care Centre projects.
Building on our strengths
Governance Structure
The design of the governance model is to ensure MCC continues to provide care and love to the people of Missionvale. The integrated approach works from the bottom up to ensure the service provision and longer term plans are delivered in a sustainable manner that addresses the needs of the entire community. The guidance and structure of the Trust and Foundation Trust provide the basis for strategic guidance supporting the operational activity while ensuring representation at community level and a logical pathway for community engagement.
The future Governance of Missionvale is based on a structure that focuses on a pathway from community engagement, operational requirements to the strategic guidance provided by Missionvale Care Centre Trust. The Governance model for Missionvale Care Centre based on the following engagement;

Missionvale Care Centre Trust
Board responsible for the strategic direction of Missionvale Care Centre (MCCT)

Missionvale Care Centre (MCC)
The operational units of Missionvale Care Centre responsible for service delivery across the areas of Health, Education and Community supported by operations.

Missionvale Community
Ensuring the needs and requirements of the community are reflected in all future planning and implementation while providing a pathway for the community to input into the future strategic direction of Missionvale care Centre

Missionvale Foundation Trust (MFT)
Missionvale Foundation Trust will provide independent financial advisory to Missionvale Care Centre Trust in relation to strategic projects
Missionvale Care Centre Trust

Missionvale Care Centre Trust represents the Board structure to provide strategic guidance for all activities and strategic plan implementation. The Board will be comprised of the Founder (representing Little Company of Mary), the General Manager and a nominated Treasurer. The Trust will be completed with the addition of a further seven board members drawn from the areas of Health, Education, Community and other areas of expertise as identified by the board. The General Manager will act as the key information exchange point between the operational structures and the board.
The strategic plan is devised around the core operational units of Community, Education and Healthcare. The operational activity and management of Missionvale Care Centre is organised around three heads of units who coordinate the various sub units within each area. An operations manager will centrally support each of the functional areas in addition to the wider site and administrative operational requirements to support Missionvale Care Centre. The General Manager will manage the reporting to the Board through its role on the Missionvale Care Centre Trust.

The management and daily operations of Missionvale Care Centre will be overseen by the site General Manager. The Board, under best practice governance guidelines, will provide the strategic direction and support for the General Manager. The new management structure will be focused on the creation of unit heads of department across the principal operational areas of Education, Healthcare and Community.
Missionvale Foundation Trust will act as an advisor to the board on financial matters and additional areas of Governance and sustainability as required. This independent advisory group will be comprised of a board of trustees.

Succession Planning

A key element of the future operation and management of Missionvale Care Centre is attention to succession planning. The implementation of a successful strategy becomes integral to the sustainability of all elements of the site. Central to the achievement of the Governance strategic objectives is the creation of a succession planning focus over the initial phase of the plan roll out in years one to two.
The strategic plan recognises the need for the voice of the community to be represented. Across the groups who we care for, from our children to our elderly, there is a requirement to ensure continuous engagement assessing the ongoing needs and requirements. In the medium to longer term the community must aspire to more ownership of activity with Missionvale and provide the guidance that ensures our strategic vision meets their needs and the needs of the future generations.
Building on our strengths
The implementation of the Strategic Plan over the next five years is based on a collaborative approach between internal and external stakeholders. Each of the strategic pillars identified as key to the continued development of Missionvale Care Centre will be actioned through partnership with external stakeholders in the areas of Health, Education, Community and Finance. The internal delivery will be based on assigning roles to internal working groups under the guidance and support of Missionvale Care Centre Trust (MCCT) and Missionvale Foundation Trust (MFT). The implementation model is based on agreed timelines with dedicated internal groups responsible for the action planning and monitoring of all elements of the plan. Reporting and monitoring systems will be in place to ensure regularity of communications. As outlined under the plan evaluation approach an interim review will also be undertaken after the first three years of the plan.

Plan Evaluation
Plan Evaluation

The successful development of the strategic plan will require the implementation of an information loop from daily operations to Board level reporting. The creation of more robust data and evaluation systems has been identified throughout the process as a priority area for ongoing development. The design and implementation of new reporting systems will be prioritised and adopted as a key mechanism in the measurement of the progress of the strategic plan.

The strategic plan evaluation model is designed to enhance existing reporting systems. In addition, a specific project impact measurement system will be created to assess the short, medium and longer term effects of projects operated through Missionvale Care Centre. This is key to provide the feedback and data to our internal stakeholders and external public and private partners.

A separate strategic plan review mechanism will be implemented as part of an interim review while an independent assessment will be conducted to ensure transparency and accountability on our strategic development activity.
